The main aim of the ECEE Network is to review the implementation of EACS guidelines across Central and Eastern European and neighboring countries, and to discuss national strategies for timely initiation of antiretroviral therapy in response to changing guidelines. The network creates consensus statements and conduct meaningful research, with results being published in international journals, which should then inform further actions by governmental agencies and support local activism.

How does it work? Face-to-face meetings organized yearly in Warsaw, Poland, before which each country participant can propose a topic, that is of interest or that needs to be further investigated in the region. Once a collective decision is made to move this forward an on-line survey is developed in order to collect information and/or opinions on the given topic. The topics are then addressed at the annual meeting.

The ECEE conferences are officially endorsed by the European AIDS Clinical Society, Medical University of Warsaw and Hospital for Infectious Diseases in Warsaw.

Relevant regional topics covered by the ECEE so far have been: dynamics of HIV and hepatitis epidemiology, late presentation in care, access to cART and its components, hard to reach population and addressing the gaps of HIV continuum of care, pregnancy and DTG exposure, access to treatment for viral hepatitis, nephrological care for HIV infected patients, access to transplantation and end-stage organ disease for HIV patients, laboratory monitoring instruments for 90-90-90, new ART strategies, prophylaxis and vaccination for viral hepatitis, and PrEP and its implementation.

ECEE Network Group Declarations

The Warsaw Declaration for Provision of EACS Guidelines in Central and Eastern Europe
6th February 2016, Warsaw, Poland

In recognition of the necessity to build regional capacity in improving HCV and HBV prevention, treatment and care, the undersigned hereby declare their will to promote programs, projects and activities promoting the widespread use of antiviral treatment for HCV infection in the Central and Eastern Europe region and neighboring countries, and to remain in conformity with the provisions of EACS guidelines.

The undersigned wish to underline the key role in the process of scaling up antiviral treatment, as the most effective strategy to reduce mortality/morbidity and to stop HCV transmission, belongs to governmental and policy-making agencies. Therefore we call these stakeholders to action in supporting national capacity in this area by more concrete and proactive funding and immediate allocation of already existing resources.

The Warsaw Declaration for provision of standards of care for hepatitis in Central and Eastern Europe
13th May 2017, Warsaw, Poland

In recognition of the need to build regional capacity in improving HCV and HBV prevention, treatment and care, the undersigned hereby declare their will to promote programs, projects and activities directed at the universal use of antiviral treatment for HCV and HBV infection and comprehensive post-HCV vaccination in the Central and Eastern Europe region and neighboring countries, a strategy which conforms with European standards of care.

The undersigned wish to underline the key role in the above process, as the most effective strategy to reduce mortality/morbidity and to eliminate the HCV and HBV epidemic, belongs to governmental and policy-making agencies. Therefore we call these stakeholders to action in supporting national capacity in this area by more concrete and proactive funding and immediate allocation of already existing resources.
